NFCCS Congress Begins Saturday

Father Kennedy Will Speak on Catholic Genius

Tomorrow evening at eight o'clock, the Rev. John S. Kennedy, one of the foremost lecturers in the United States, will deliver an address here, covering the topic "The Genius of Catholicism." The lecture will be held in the Rec Hall to enable the faculty and students to mingle together. A question period will follow the address.

Father Kennedy, a noted radio commentator, is a nationally known literary critic for the New York Times, and Associate Editor of the Catholic Transcript, Hartford, Conn., diocesan weekly. He writes a monthly column for the Los Angeles papers entitled, "The Tidings of Los Angeles," and has fictional reviews in Commonweal, Catholic World, New York Times Book Review, and other widely read religious and secular publications.

In his address Father Kennedy will point out the character and record of Catholicism under fierce and varied attacks, and will attempt to answer these questions: Is Catholicism the foe of freedom? Is it an enslaver of men's minds? Does it block progress? Is it the enemy of the State?

Following the question period, Father Kennedy will mingle with his listeners and answer any personal question which may be asked.

Sixteen Included On Honor List

Sixteen students have merited special recognition for superior achievement during the first semester. Those included on the Dean's List have made a scholastic index of 2.50 or better at the semester grading period, and had a B average also on the mid-semester grade report.

Seniors Charles E. Esterhammer, Chicago, James R. Heiny, Ft. Wayne, and James H. Stang, Dayton, Ohio; Junior Henry B. Croak, Harvard, Ill.; Sophomores John R. Bassett, Peoria, Ill., John A. Naab, Rock Island, Ill., Joseph A. Peters, Mansfield, Ohio, Hugh D. Schadle, Russell, Ky., Raymond H. Schultheis, Verona, Pa., Joseph A. Sebastiani, Cincinnati, Ohio, and Arthur J. Vonderhaar, Ft. Wayne; Freshmen John A. Brown, Buffalo, N.Y., Robert J. Hummel, North Vernon, Ind., Michael A. Nassr, Toledo, Ohio, Eugene A. Rueve, Toledo, Ohio, and Richard J. Vossler, Wapakoneta, Ohio.

The following, whose scholastic ratings fall within the range 2.25-2.49, are accorded honorable mention: Seniors Thomas H. Fedewa, Wabash, Ind., James E. Pawloski, Flint, Mich., Victor F. Toeppe, Millersville, Ohio, and Leo L. Tonner, Rensselaer, Ind.; Juniors David L. Coady, Kokomo, Ind., George E. Peters, Whiting, Ind., Paul R. Scheiber, Huntington, Ind., and Edward A. Tomko, Cleveland, Ohio; Sophomores Robert J. Eder, North Vernon, Ind., John W. Ewry, Portland, Ind., Edward J. Joyce, Cleveland, Ohio, Joseph E. Lazur, Whiting, Ind., and Ernest W. Ranly, Cassella, Ohio; Freshmen Daniel P. Deneau, Kankakee, Ill., and Eugene A. Ziemba, Chicago.

NFCCS Officers

College Mardi Gras Feb. 17-19 Features Dance, Comedy, Game

Color and gaiety will reign supreme on the Collegeville campus the week-end of Feb. 17-19 in pre-Lenten festivities arranged and sponsored by the Lake County Club. Planned in an unusual setting, the week-end gives promise of a full round of entertainment before the opening of the penitential season.

First on the agenda is the basketball game between St. Joseph's Pumas and Indiana State, Friday evening. Saturday will feature the Columbian Players-St. Xavier's College Theatre Guild presentation of "Life With Mother," in a matinee performance, a faculty-student dinner in the evening, and the Mardi Gras dance from 9 to 12.

"Life With Mother" is an adaptation of the novel of the same name by Clarence Day and will be presented in the College Theatre at three o'clock (tentative) in the afternoon. Directed by Miss Crowe, moderator of the St. Xavier's College Drama Club, the play will include in its cast Michael Lehnerd, Fred Bruhn, John Wood, Don Netols and Charles George, of the Columbian Players.

At six o'clock in the evening the faculty will be hosts at a dinner given for the students and their dates.

The dance will be the high point of the festivities for most students. Based on the traditional New Orleans Mardi Gras, the decorations will include the colorful combination ferris-wheel and merry-go-round backdrop, praised so highly at Homecoming, and a false ceiling of many balloons and bright crepe paper, the latter to be used also in completing the wall and smoking-room decorations. Hats and noise-makers will be given out at the door, and the setting will be completed with a picturesque wishing-well. Music will be furnished by Renold Young's orchestra and his "Society Styled" music. Bids are $3.00 per couple.

'Preparation' Theme of Meeting; Addresses, Panel Sessions, Dance on Agenda

Next Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 11 and 12, mark the seventh annual congress of the Fort Wayne Region, NFCCS. Based on the theme, "Preparation," the two-day meeting will feature an address by Thomas Brickley of St. Vincent's College, Latrobe, Pa., national president of the NFCCS.

New Infirmarian Comes to Campus

Dwenger Hall, campus Health Center, now houses a new dispenser of pills and salves. Brother Camillus has assumed the duties of infirmarian, replacing Brother Denis, recently transferred to St. Charles Seminary, Carthage, Ohio.

Brother Camillus, a smiling, jovial man, has been a member of the Society of the Precious Blood for 11 years. His first assignment was as assistant infirmarian at St. Charles, Carthage. In 1941 he was placed in charge of the infirmary at Brunnerdale Seminary, Canton, Ohio, and last week took over in Dwenger Hall at St. Joseph's.

In addition to eliminating Collegeville's aches and pains, Brother Camillus is studying laboratory technique under Dr. Ceicys.

Brother Denis, our late master of pills and bottles, came to St. (Continued on Page Four)

Panel sessions conducted by the student chairmen of the various commissions of the Federation will be held Saturday afternoon and again Sunday morning after the Congress Mass. The commissions are: International Relations and Overseas, Apostolic, Student Government, Family Life, Press, and Interracial Justice.

Theme is "Preparation"

Following the theme, "Preparation," the Congress aims to "prove to the casual observer that Christ is the foundation of the NFCCS; the nucleus of the Federation is the student; and the Federation IS the student." Each student is a member of the Federation; without the active support of the members, the Federation is lifeless. With the support of each member, however, the Federation becomes a strong force for Catholic Action. This congress will help to integrate the different campus groups and show the individual students what the Federation really is.

Saturday Dance

On Saturday night, the Social Activities Committee of St. Joseph's Student Council will sponsor a dance in the recreation hall for the visiting delegates. Music will be provided by the juke box, and all St. Joe men are invited to attend. Admission is fifty cents for those who do not attend the congress. Delegates are admitted free.

Colleges comprising the Fort Wayne Region are St. Francis, Ft. Wayne; St. Mary-of-the-Woods, Terre Haute; St. Mary's, Notre Dame; Nazareth, Nazareth, Mich.; Aquinas, Grand Rapids, Mich., and St. Joseph's.

Delegates from Marion College, Indianapolis, of the Cincinnati region, and Siena Heights College, Adrian, Mich., of the Detroit region, are also expected to attend.

Juniors Work On Spring Prom

The Junior Class has begun work on the annual Spring Prom, scheduled for the night of May 20. As yet, there has been no definite choice of an orchestra, but several dance bands are being considered, and a decision should be made in the near future. Tentative plans for theme and decorations were laid at a class meeting held last evening. As usual, the affair will be formal.

Four of "Life With Mother" Cast

Still suffering from the effects of semester examinations, apparently, Fred Bruhn, Mike Lehnerd, Charley George, and Don Netols leave Collegeville for a Chicago practice session of "Life With Mother."

C. Players Join Guild in New Play

A diamond engagement ring worn by the wrong woman is the hilarious situation in "Life With Mother," to be presented in the Collegeville auditorium on Feb. 18. The play is a joint production of St. Joseph's Columbian Players and the Theatre Guild of St. Xavier College of Chicago.

Ideas on Ideals

One of the major problems of every college student is the evaluating of ideals. The student must decide, usually by the end of his second year, just what he is going to do when he is graduated. He must set up certain goals which he must try to achieve. No matter how much counselling he may receive, the decisions are up to him, as is the fulfillment of his plans.

Assuredly, the student will need a job which will give him a decent amount of money. He will want a home, a wife, children, a car, good clothes. But . . . are these ideals? Many students seem to think so. This is especially true in the less contemplative fields of business and science. Concentration upon materialistic goals can easily lead to a penurious, pessimistic state of mind.

Well then, just what type of ideal should the student pursue? A mental state may be the answer. The mind is the major weapon which the college man of today must utilize in the carving of his life. In setting up materialistic goals, a student often attacks the problem without considering his means. A better ideal would be that of a mental state, which, once achieved, would automatically provide the material necessities of post-college life.

To enlarge and explain: when a student enters college he is told that his first two years study will give him a general background in nearly every field of knowledge. He takes courses in philosophy, religion, humanities and social sciences. Through these studies, the college tries to develop in the student's mind, a certain broadmindedness, an insight into the basic problems of his own and others' lives, and an enlightened Catholic attitude toward daily life.

It is up to the student himself to accept and further his progress toward this mental position. If he gains it, he has realized the pettiness of many of the standards of today's society. He is able to overlook the small defeats entirely, and to view the big ones with a philosophical eye. The material necessities will naturally come to him, for he will have the ability plus the determination to carry on despite difficulties.

Having once attained mental happiness with its concomitant material security, he will not be the type who will say "I deserve this," but rather one who will truthfully say "I am thankful." In the eyes of God, which is better?—D.C.

Cavemen Thought So Too!

When the cave-man genius who first discovered the principle of the bow and arrow made that invention and started annihilating his war-time foes, undoubtedly there were many who thought that that horrible weapon would wipe out the human race.

When the second World War reached a climax with the all-powerful atomic bomb, the entire world shook with fear and tried to organize to ban the use of that weapon. Everyone thought that it would wipe out the human race.

Now the United States is working on a hydrogen bomb, and it looks as if we might finally be getting someplace.

The only question is,—where?

The original "crude" atom bomb wiped out two Japanese cities. This new "superbomb" has unlimited potentialities. It can be made as powerful as makers desire, eight or ten times as strong as the atomic models.

Atomic energy promised great things. It could be used for peacetime purposes, and be a great benefit to humanity. This new bomb is nothing more than a lethal weapon, and that is its sole use.

We hear promises to the effect that it will be used to "conserve peace," that it will keep us from another war, but we heard that about the atomic bomb, and about peacetime conscription in 1939.

Theodore Roosevelt, at the turn of the century, made America the foremost power with his "big stick" policy, which was simply the rule of the mightiest. But in less than half a century, we were in the bloodiest war of history.

Franklin D. Roosevelt tried to make the world free from war with a policy of cooperation among all nations, but despite that, another world strife seems imminent.

But what of another great leader, Joan of Arc? She saved her nation from aggression, and brought peace, without a "big stick", and without forming alliances with other nations. Her genius came from a much scoffed-at source—she said she prayed a lot and tried to do the will of God!

While the country that is but a few miles across the Bering Straits from us becomes more and more of a threat of war, the entire world searches for a way to gain peace. The United Nations conferences for the past few years have been working diligently toward that goal.

We wish someone would give St. Joan's method a trial.

Adventures of J. Puma, Dave In Registering

BY UTAH

In the beginning of February of every year, it usually rains or snows on Collegeville. Most of the time, the students living in that community find themselves in a remarkable state of bankruptcy. Always, the faculty residing there precipitates the confusion known as registration.

Registration is a process in which the faculty checks over its list to see which classes are held at eight a.m. or on Saturday, and then makes those classes obligatory.

The custom of registration dates far back into history. It has grown hallowed with age. It is beginning to grow moldy with age.

The word goes back to the ancient Greeks, who had a phrase, "regi str aton", meaning "quick like a reluctant glacier."

The Romans enlarged the scope of the activity. They made it include everybody, and called it a census.

Down through the ages, however, registration became the sole property of institutions of learning. Nobody else wanted it. So it is that whenever professors tire of teaching certain courses, they hold examinations and then make everybody register for new courses. Strangely, this always happens in the early part of February.

In Collegeville, registration started with a four-hour session with all of the Old Guard faculty members. Joe Puma, Collegeville's pride and joy, went into the process with his roommate, Dave. They were each given a list of all classes offered. Then they were given a blank sheet of paper and time in which to write their choice of courses. That system is used to develop the student's initiative. Then they were given reasons why their choices weren't allowed, after which a faculty member made up a new schedule for them.

Then they went to the bookstore and spent all of their coin of the realm for texts, and the next day they learned that the schedule of courses had been rearranged, that they would have to register all over again.

"Dave," said Joe, "this time I'm gonna really work on my schedule. I'm gonna get the set-up I want, and there won't be any conflicts!"

One week later, all registrations were over, and a group of literati in the recreation hall were telling each other what misconstrued, poorly-made hours they had.

Joe Puma blew a smoke ring at a stuffed elephant head, smiled expansively, and commented, "Boys, you just don't know how to work it. I've got no eight or nine o'clock classes, no Saturday classes, and no Monday classes."

"Yeah? What kind of courses are you taking?"

"Well, that's the only drawback. I've got Introductory Sanscrit, Theory of Ping-Pong, Advanced Pogo Stick, and Biography of Joe Stalin."

Commerce Club To Hold Dance

A dance for members of the Commerce Club will be held in the recreation hall Feb. 10, it was announced by Bob Ryan, president of the club. The dance will begin immediately after the St. Joe-Loras basketball game in the college field house.

Members of the Commerce Club only are invited to attend the affair. Girls from Mundelein College, of Chicago, will be present for the occasion.

GAG BUSTERS

BY DAVE

The other day I am sitting in the rec hall flirting with the girl on the Coca-Cola sign, when the door bangs behind me. I hear a huge silence and everybody around me suddenly seems very interested in the art of disappearing. Knowing what this means, I get up and edge toward the door, but it is no use. George is standing there, and he is talking even before he smashes me on the arm and says, "Hello, old buddy, old kid, old buddy. How's things with you?" "Well, George."

"Boy, have I got some dope to tell you! You know this character here which goes by the tag of Mike Lehnard? Well, he is growing something on his upper lip which resembles a worn-out shoe brush more than anything else, but he claims it is a mustache. The first time I see it, I say, 'why don't you wash your face?' But he says it is for the play at St. Xavier's, so I say, 'yeah, I heard there were glinches in it.'

"Since we are talking about the play, did you hear about the new VOICE we have blossoming in our midst? It seems that this shmoe, Don Netols, has won the part of Clarence in Life With Mother, and now he won't even lead the yells like he does before. He claims cheering is hard on his renunciation or something like that."

"Yes George, I know, but,"

"I figure there is some kind of movement going on, considering these mustaches and voices and stuff. What's worse, do you catch the hats these freshmen are perpetrating upon us? It starts last fall, and seems to be near a climax, because the other night I see one which almost leaves me speechless, so you can imagine what it is like. It is perched on the noggin of one George Grecu, known to the boys in the back room as Greasy. The darn thing is bright red and blue, and has a K on the front. He says it is for Kokomo, but I say, 'do not joke with me, I know there is no such place.' I figure we got to keep these greenies in their place."

Here I get in eight whole words, "George, this is all well and good, but,"

"And then there's this green beanie boy known to one and all as John Dickey. It turns out he is the gleep who is writing these cards to the 'Easy Does It' record program and forgetting to sign his name. He makes a few requests which I am not telling anyone. He should request something for Rene Kempen, who nearly disrupts Noll Hall study for semester finals by his attempt to play a toy clarinet."

Here I slam my fist on the table, and George is startled long enough to let me ask, "How do you manage to talk so much?"

George replies in a scholarly manner, "I got a buddy plays sax. He taught me how to breathe between words."

Between Halves

BY BUD CLARK

Sorely missing the Puma Growls of Terrible Tom Fedewa who used to handle this sort of department, we the uppersigned thought that it might be appropriate at the start of this semester to toss out a few views of this sports page which find no place in sports news articles. (If you think that sentence was long, just wait until next issue). At the outset we wish to state that the views of this writer may not rate 100%, but this is the way we see it.

HAVE YOU NOTICED how George Peters has been plunking in free tosses lately? Well, for your information this has been going on all season. In fact, George missed on but 12 of 71 attempts in his first 15 games. He has swished 59 charities through the hoop for a cool .840 free throw percentage. I wonder just where George stands in the national free throw ratings.

REHASHING THE PUMA SHOWINGS against Duquesne and De Paul, we've noticed that if the Cosgrovemmen hadn't spotted both teams such a large lead in the early minutes of the contests, the games would have been precariously close. The Dukes managed to walk away with an 11-point victory while De Paul won out by a 10-point edge. By the way, at this writing the Dukes have racked up 16 straight and are rated the No. 2 team in the country. How about that? It doesn't look like they're that good from here. Personally, we think that Valpo's Crusaders would give both De Paul and Duquesne plenty of competition.

IT COULD BE that Coach Wilbur Allen has given that extra something to Valpo's Schroer, Metcalf, and Schreiber. The Crusaders have an up-and-coming outfit. Anytime you can beat Indiana State you've got a pretty fair outfit. And that's just what Valpo did. Look out next year!

THE MIDLANDS CONFERENCE race looks like a rough and tough scramble this year. Although the Pumas dropped their first two conference starts, they still have a better-than-even chance of walking off with the laurels. Here's the way we figure it... St. Joe polished off Ambrose in the field house by 10 points, 57-47. Loras was able to knock over the Bees only after a terrific struggle. The score was 67-66... just a one-point difference. This makes St. Joe nine-point favorites over Loras. Sure, it's second guessing, but you have to be optimistic about these things. Loras doesn't have any Mickey Marty this year, but watch out for Jim McCabe... a jump-shot artist. He'll bear watching.

AND WE SEE that Joe Hawkins is back on the campus after putting in a semester at Butler. This is good news to Father Roof, athletic director and coach of the tennis team. Come spring, you'll see what we mean. Joe, along with Ed Pluth, has been the mainstay of the net and racket crew. Hawkins was the Indianapolis City Tennis Champion in high school, and has won two letters at St. Joe to prove it. Glad to see you back, Joe!

While we've got the welcome mat out, we might as well extend a cheery greeting to that ol' Kentuckian, Keller Riede. Riede was unable to attend the first semester of school because of a thyroid operation he underwent in a Louisville hospital. But we're happy to report that Keller is again a hefty 175 pounds. He hopes to be just what Dr. Richard Scharf, the baseball coach, ordered. Keller played firststring shortstop for St. Joe in 1947 and in 1948.

... INTRAMURALS ...

BY MIKE NASSR

With league play terminating Feb. 22, the top teams are setting a rapid pace in the Intramural Basketball races.

In the "A" League Joe Moore's Brewers finished the first round without a defeat, but thus far in the second round Lynx Quinn and his J-Boys have led the way with four wins, no losses.

George Riggs and the Southern Yankees are on top in the "B" League with eight straight wins without a loss, and are closely followed by Al Murphy's Slobbovian Ingots, also undefeated. Still rated with a chance for the crown are the Sharpshooters, headed by Don Schubert.

Table Tennis

A table tennis tournament to determine St. Joseph's entries in the Extramural Tourney to be held at Loras, March 18, will be underway soon. All entries must be submitted by Friday, Feb. 10, and play will begin Feb. 15. The winning singles man and doubles team will merit the trip.

A volleyball tournament will be underway March 1. Eight men will compose a team, and the winning team will be entered in the Extramural Tournament.

St. Joe Set For Valpo Whirlwind Attack Tonight

BY BOB BRAITHWAITE

Three return ball games adorn the next phase of St. Joe's exacting schedule, all of them with red-hot teams and all of them represented by earlier lopsided losses. Tonight's invasion of Valparaiso heads the list, with Midlands Conference leader Loras scheduled for Friday and Indiana State's Sycamores looming up a week from Friday.

The return to form of Puma Captain Ray Patterson gives encouragement to optimists in the St. Joe cause, but these three games must be considered as definite roadblocks on the road to fame and fortune.

At Valpo tonight the Pumas can expect to see plenty of Jim Ove, Bill Schroer, and Ralph Metcalf, three men who are the current Crusader hopes for a return to national basketball prominence. Led by their new coach, Wilbur Allen, the Crusaders are enjoying one of their all-time finest seasons, and are still chortling over the 27-point defeat hung on Puma chins last Jan. 11.

St. Joe's chance for a shot at the Midlands title is the prize at stake when the Duhawks take the field house floor, next Friday night. Although Loras is also riding the crest of victory, chances for a local win are strong, if Jimmy McCabe can be tamed from his jump-shot scoring tactics. The smooth-working forward has passed the double-century mark in scoring already this year and is backed by the much-improved Ernie Skrabby and setshot star Jack Rohan. Loras is looking for that Midlands crown and next Friday's brawl tells the story.

After a week of well-earned rest, St. Joe takes on the always powerful Indiana State Sycamores at home. State trounced the Pumas, 80-51, at Terre Haute on Jan. 26. This, too, must be regarded as one of the toughest games on a tough schedule.

Ambrose Victim As St. Joe Hangs Up 1st Midlands Victory

The St. Ambrose Bees were handed their second consecutive Midlands Conference basketball defeat by the Pumas, Monday, Jan. 16, by the score of 57-47. The victory gave St. Joseph's its first conference win as against two previous setbacks. It was also salve for the 16-point loss handed St. Joseph's by Ambrose in Davenport.

The hot shooting of Bill Krodel from his favorite corner slot, and the return of Ray Patterson, finding his deadly out-court shot, gave the Pumas the push needed to send them rocketing past the troublesome Bees.

Krodel dumped in 19 points, while George Peters followed up with 14. Patterson connected on six field goals for 12 markers. The win moved St. Joseph's into a two-way tie for third place with Ambrose.

Basket Weaver...

Ray Patterson, co-captain of St. Joseph's basketball squad, has moved up as No. 3 scorer for Art Cosgrove. Patterson displayed his talent for basket weaving when he connected for 15 points against De Paul last Wednesday.

Pumas Find State Tough; Lose 80-51

They're still the same old Sycamores—St. Joseph's found out when it traveled to Terre Haute, Jan. 26, to absorb an 80-51 shellacking administered by Indiana State. The Pumas managed to stay close in the early minutes of play, but the Sycamores poured it on to take a 37-20 halftime lead that was never in jeopardy.

The defeat put the St. Joe season record back on a .500 basis with a seven won and seven lost record. George Peters and Bob Horky proved to be St. Joseph's sole salvation. Peters accounted for 11 points, while Horky was banging in 10. Jack Dwyer contributed three field goals, but his six free tosses made him high man for the Pumas with 12 points.

The victory was State's fifth in succession. Forward Don McDonald did his bit in extending the streak by leading the Sycamore scorers with 14 points.

Hot First Half Hands De Paul 76-64 Victory

It was a battle all the way before the Pumas bowed to De Paul by a 74-64 count last Wednesday night in the field house, but a slow start in the early minutes of the game kept the Pumas from causing Coach Ray Meyer and his charges plenty of concern.

A red-hot pair of cagers by the names of Bato Govedarica and Clem Pavilonis set the pace in a torrid first half for De Paul. The score at halftime was 41-29, and everyone in the field house knew that the Blue Demons were on, but good, to the St. Joe baskets.

A Wicked Hook

Before the evening was over, Pavilonis' wicked hook shot had given him six field goals, which was nice company for the three charity tosses he flipped in. Meanwhile, Govedarica was no slouch in the scoring department. Little Bato banged in 20 markers, 10 on fielders and 10 consecutive free throws.

St. Joseph's played a good floor game and caused some excitement in the early minutes of the second half. The Pumas slipped in eight consecutive points to up the score to 41-37 before the Demons were able to find the range. But this was as close the Cosgrovemmen could come. De Paul poured on the pressure to lead by 19 points with six minutes left in the game. But then George Peters hit three baskets and Jack Dwyer dumped in two. Jack Wilz found the corner range for two set shots, ending the game with a 74-64 score.

Patterson High

Ray Paterson was high man for the Pumas with 15 points to his credit before fouling out with six minutes left to play. Peters and Dwyer amassed 13 points each. Bill Krodel and Wilz followed with nine points apiece.

It was the third time in three years that St. Joseph's has bowed to De Paul. George Peters kept his free throw string alive. He has hit 12 consecutive charity tosses in his last four contests. The loss gives the Pumas a 7-8 record for the season.

Semi-Monthly Dances Planned by Council For After Easter

Regular semi-monthly dances on campus are soon to be a part of St. Joseph's College activities. In a meeting last Saturday the Student Council completed plans for the affairs. The first is scheduled for February 11, in conjunction with the NFCCS Regional Congress.

After Lent, the dances will be held every other Saturday night, in the recreation hall. Admission will be fifty cents.

Until now, the deterrent factor in the promotion of these dances has been the remarkable lack of dancing partners for the Collegeville men. The Student Council is now inviting these partners from various Catholic girl's colleges in the vicinity. The girls will come from colleges in the Chicago and central Indiana regions, by bus, every other Saturday, and reign as queens of the rec hall until 11 p.m.

Guided by Mr. George LaMountain, executive moderator, the social activities committee of the Student Council will sponsor the dances.

Congratulations!!

Sincere congratulations are extended to Senior Victor Toeppe on his marriage, last Saturday, and to Senior Jim and Mrs. Stang on the birth of their second son, William Joseph, on Jan. 25.

Assembly Stages of STUFF Show Story of Newspaper

The production of an issue of STUFF is somewhat involved, yet interesting. Few students are aware of the various steps through which a bit of news goes before it finally appears in the local post office boxes.

When one issue has "hit the streets," the editor calls a meeting of all staff members, and assigns stories for the next paper. The deadline for these stories is one week off, giving the reporter a sufficient amount of time to collect his material and write it up.

Interesting Assignment

The assignments often prove interesting, as a good writer is expected to show up with the "who, what, when, where, why and how," regardless of the hardships through which he may have to go. One reporter recently started out to find a certain score-book. He found the place, which at the time was unlit, put the book in his pocket, and returned to the staff office. When he examined his find, it turned out to be, much to his surprise and chagrin, a professor's grade book.

When the stories have been written and turned in to the editors, they go through a process known as copyreading. This involves correction of grammatical and factual errors, and possibly rewriting of the whole story, if it does not measure up to the standards of good news writing.

"How Not to Write News"

Usually, at the start of the year, several of the reporters are apt to be a little inexperienced, and the editors can expect some stories which will go down in the history of journalism as examples of "How Not to Write News."

For instance, a piece of copy was once turned in which began, "The other day I went to a meeting of Stuff and the editor said he would like to know how the student council is getting along so I walked over to the hall and talked to a member of the council and got the scoop." This went on ad infinitum. With a little fatherly advice, however, things like these are soon straightened out.

Column Proofs

The finished copy is sent to the printer, and each story is printed separately in column form on long sheets of paper known as "galley," or column proofs. Two sets of these are sent out from the print-shop, one of which is proof-read for linotypist's errors, the other used in making up the paper.

After the individual stories have been cut out of the galley, they are pasted on a large printed sheet known as a "dummy," marked off in columns the exact size of the finished issue. The editors must decide where each item is to be placed, depending upon its news value, headlines must be written, pictures pasted in, and captions for them written. The prize caption for the year is "Three Thweet Things," evidently written in a moment of extreme mental weakness as the title for a picture of three of the actresses in "January Thaw."

The dummy is then sent to the printer, who uses it in making the forms from which the paper is printed.

Local NFCCS Men Speak at Workshop

The Rev. Joseph Scheuer, moderator of the St. Joe chapter of the NFCCS, and John W. Lynch, chairman of the National Press Commission, with Mr. Maurice Fischer, assistant city editor of the Chicago Daily News, were guest speakers last Sunday, Feb. 5, at the Chicago Regional Press Commission Workshop at De Paul University.

Mr. Fischer keynoted the theme of the workshop with a frank emphasis of the importance, extent and need of a strong Catholic Press in the United States. Father Scheuer and John Lynch discussed the "Freedom of the Catholic Collegiate Press" and "Secularism in the Catholic Collegiate Press".

The workshop included delegates from Loyola, De Paul, Mundelein, St. Francis of Joliet, St. Xavier, Baret, Notre Dame, Rosary and Lewis Colleges.

Father Scheuer and Lynch, by invitation of Mr. Fischer, will be guest speakers early in March before the Gabriel Guild, a group of Catholic journalists, publicists, and public relations men in the Chicago archdiocese.

Pumas Pull Win Over Cardinals In Tight Tilt

Trailing the entire game, except for a brief moment early in the second half, the St. Joseph's Pumas came back strong in the final minutes of the ball game to edge the Ball State Cardinals, 47-45, in the field house, Saturday, Jan. 21. It was victory No. 7 in 13 starts for Art Cosgrove's cagers.

The Pumas forged into the lead when Jack Wilz tipped in his only bucket of the evening with just 45 seconds of playing time remaining. Ray Patterson connected for seven field goals to pace the Puma attack.
